She was well known in the city as the attended school here. Chas. A. Hill, a brother of the deceased, came here from Bristol, Tennessee, where he is engaged in teaching and has an interest in a business college, to attend the funeral.

Greeting.

This word of greeting is not addressed solely to the members of the Baptist congregation, but to the entire community. The pastor and family desire to express their gratification at the unanimity of the welcome they have received. We want it understood that we are here to serve, and it is our sincere desire to measure up to the standard set by our Master and "become the servant of all." With this in view we come to you and, regardless of name or creed, seek the privilege of serving you as we expect to be served in the hour of need. You will always find a welcome at the Baptist church, but if we confined our ministry within its four walls we would feel that we are unfaithful to Him who "went about" doing good. We ask for a place in the community life and for a share in its work and interests. Thus we greet you.

Forget Your Aches.

Stiff knees, aching limbs, lame back make life a burden. If you suffer from rheumatism, gout, lumbago, neuralgia, get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, the universal remedy for pain. Easy to apply; it penetrates without rubbing and soothes the tender flesh. Clearer and more effective than many ointments or poultices. For strains or sprains, sore muscles or wrenched ligaments resulting from strenuous exercise, Sloan's Liniment gives quick relief. Keep it on hand for emergencies. At your druggist 25.

Al. G. Barnes Circus at Poplar Bluff.

Performing sebras, llamas and camels. For the first time in the history of the circus business, it is claimed, these animals have been taught to jump through hoops, roll barrels and do other stunts.

Sea lions riding horses and tossing a ball back and forth as the horses run around the ring, while an audience of other sea lions sits in the "grandstand" and applauds each act, by clapping flippers together vigorously.

An elephant leads the pony into the ring and practically acts as ring master. After stepping over the pony and allowing it to run between its legs, the elephant lies down and the pony jumps up on its side.

Samson, a wonderful trained lion, which does an aviation stunt with Miss Stark, making a trip through the air in the center of a fireworks display.

Kangaroos which balance on their tails and box with their trunks. There are real knockout blows delivered, and even Jess Willard might learn new jabs and blows from the animals.

Clear Bad Skin From Within

Pimples, muddy complexion are due to impurities in the blood. Clear up the skin by taking Dr. King's New Life Pills. Their mild laxative qualities remove the poisons from the system and brighten the eye. A full, free, non-gripping bowel movement in the morning is the reward of a dose of Dr. King's New Life Pills the night before. At your Druggist, 25c.

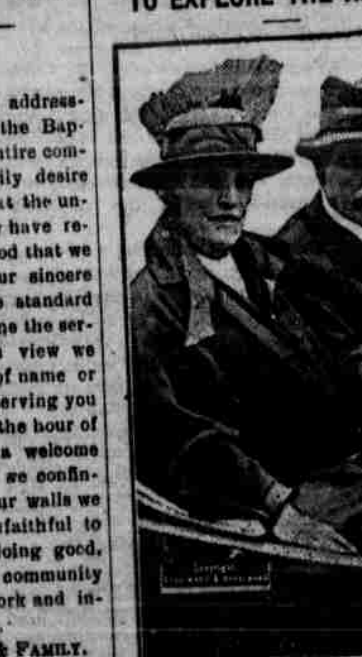

Don't Neglect Your Cold.

Neglected colds get worse, instead of better. A stuffed head, a tight chest must be relieved at once. Dr. Bell's Hine Tar-Honey is Nature's remedy. Honey and glycerine heal the irritated membrane, antiseptic tar loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and your cold is broken up. Pleasant to take. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ideal remedy for children as well as grown-ups. At your Druggist, 25c.

Stop the First Cold

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wear in a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drain the energy and sap the vitality. For 47 years the happy combination of soothing antiseptic balsams in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle to-day today at your druggist, 50c.

Mrs. A. Hamilton Rice, the former Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, will accompany her husband Dr. A. Hamilton Rice, into the upper reaches of the Amazon and the Orinoco. The former Mrs. George D. Widener was widowed by the Titanic disaster. She is one of society's most famous matrons and will give up the safety and luxury of Newport to be at her husband's side in the journey through a land swarming with poisonous insects and noted for many varieties of fevers.

SULU ISLANDERS FAVOR LEARNING

Peace and Order Succeeded Treachery and Savagery Among Moros.

SEND THEIR YOUNG TO SCHOOL

Marvelous Change Takes Place in Three Years—Realizing Our Motives, People Are Heart and Soul With Us, Says Traub.

Manila, P. I.—Misgivings felt several years ago when all American troops were withdrawn from Mindanao and Sulu, home of the Moros, the only Mohammedans in the Philippines, have been proved needless by the new regime in that region. Where five years ago fear of the Moro and his lust for blood made the life of the foreigner in the Moro country one of constant worry and apprehension, today there is peace and the beginning of a prosperity the like of which would have seemed a fool's dream in 1912.

The substituting of Filipino constabulary for American troops began soon after Governor General Harrison's arrival (October 6, 1913). The conciliating of the Moro was hastened by the policies of Frank Carpenter, formerly executive secretary of the Philippine government, whom Mr. Harrison made governor of Mindanao and Sulu. Mr. Carpenter was the first civilian governor, succeeding General Pershing, the last military governor.

Long Uphill Struggle.

Governor Carpenter and his assistants had a long uphill struggle against recalcitrant and superstitious people, but little by little outlawry has been stamped out by guns and rifles hidden away in forest homes and mountain huts have been turned in. Here and there school houses have sprung up, to attract Moro children whose parents, at first suspicious and unfriendly, finally moved to the settlement where the schools were, giving up the nomadic life which for centuries had been the worst foe to Moro prosperity.

The Sulu archipelago and Jolo Island for years a hotbed of violence in Mindanao, can now claim to have seen the end of outlawry and bushwhacking. To the man who knows the Jolo of five years ago, to the soldier whose recollection of Jolo is a memory of sleepless nights and anxious days, when the slightest noise behind his back meant the possibility of an attack by a murderous Moro or one made mad by Mohammedan fanaticism, the achievement seems incredible. But the thing has been done, and Col. Peter E. Traub of the constabulary (a lieutenant colonel in the regular army on detached duty with the constabulary) has brought about a new era of Sulu peace and order, a matter of official record in an order congratulating the constabulary of Mindanao and Sulu, as follows:

Not a Single Outlaw.

"The district chief announces to the district in general orders the fact that in the Province of Sulu there is not a single known outlaw at large—all have been either killed, captured or have surrendered.

"When it is realized that this is the first time in the history of the Philippine Islands that such a statement could be truthfully made its importance becomes apparent. The whole Sulu archipelago is in a state of law, order and peaceful control.

"In October, 1914, when the undersigned assumed charge of this district outlawry was rampant in Sulu and it was a place shunned by peaceful travelers; but with the establishment of stations in the heart of the affected region and with the spirit that the Sulu constabulary has invariably displayed, every officer and man, regardless of hardship and privation, regardless of danger and death, did his full duty toward the government, without malice toward the misguided creatures who with their progenitors had made the name of Sulu a by-word in the annals of these islands.

"In the short space of 21 months 413 outlaws were killed, captured or forced to surrender, 197 firearms were captured or surrendered and 599 blade weapons were captured or surrendered. This was not accomplished without loss to our brave men, of whom ten were killed or died of wounds and 12 were wounded and recovered. The greatest accomplishment of all, however, is that these things were done with a minimum of hatred and heartburns on the part of the population, which in gradually increasing numbers came to help us in our work of rooting out the lawless who were preying on the law-abiding, until now all the people, realizing the motives that actuate us in our work, are heart and soul with us."

Hen Sets in Thresher.

Washington, Pa.—How an old hen that had built her nest in their thresher and was not disturbed from her motherly duty by the grinding and whirling of the machinery is an incident being related by Scott Brothers of near Bentleyville. More than 75 bushels of grain had been sorted from the straw and chaff when they had occasion to examine the inside of the machine. To their surprise they found the hen covered with dust and chaff sitting on her nest.

Important to Education.

The most important part of education is the training of the senses which, besides supplying the faculty of accurate observation, creates the habit of careful reflection and measured reasoning. The boys on the farms, no less than those who are being trained in the trades, acquire extensive development of the senses. The advent of mechanical power and machinery, however, has impaired this development.—President Charles W. Eliot.

Press Succeeds Hammer.

In a German steel works a hydraulic press that can exert a pressure of 11,000 tons has replaced a steam hammer that shook the earth for a long distance every time it was used.

OUR MEXICAN POLICY BASED ON HUMANITY

How the President Has Upheld the Rights of Small Nations.

RESISTED WAR PRESSURE.

Is Determined That the Citizens of America's Sister Republic Shall Be Permitted to Work Out Their Own Freedom and Self Government.

"President Wilson's faith in democracy and the unselfishness of the United States in international dealings have been strikingly expressed in his Mexican policy.

"The president's demand for Mexico is—justice."

The larger phases of the relations of the United States with Mexico during President Wilson's administration, as well as an interesting and complete narrative of events, are presented authoritatively in the Mexican chapter of the Democratic National Textbook from which the quotations are made. "Two considerations have actuated the president in the formulation of his Mexican policy and have accomplished his adherence to it throughout his administration, namely:

"The firm conviction that all nations, both the weak and the powerful, have the inalienable right to control their internal affairs.

"The belief, established upon the history of the world, that Mexico will never become a peaceful and law-abiding neighbor of the United States until she has been permitted to achieve permanent and basic settlement of her troubles without outside interference.

"The Mexican problem in its present form has existed for the American government ever since our frontier was extended to the Rio Grande. When the people maintained the peace it was because they were fed to do so, not because justice reigned in the land. Thus it was that the history of Mexico, like the history of every agricultural people, pressed upon President Wilson's consideration the truth that no permanent good relations could exist between this great northern republic and the one immediately south of us until she had been left free to put her house in order, however painful that process might be and whatever the demands it might make upon the forbearance of the United States. . . .

"There was a powerful pressure for war—a terrible war—by a well armed powerful nation against an unarmed, bankrupt people, exhausted by five years of civil strife, but who still retained enough of patriotic feeling to unify them against an invader. It was the old, old question whether the United States should impose a peace on Mexico; whether for the sake of the interests of a few of its citizens it should permanently suppress Mexico's preaching toward freedom and self government."
